

Help your people tap into their superpowers by leveraging the latest in AI technology for their day-to-day tasks

Meet UKG Bryte — our artificial intelligence in service of all people, designed to highlight improvement opportunities and create a great place to work. Bryte AI-powered tools in UKG Ready help your employees tap into their superpowers to become the greatest version of themselves while boosting efficiencies and output so they can focus on more strategic business goals.

With technology built to drive efficiencies that incorporates unique data through UKG’s 30 years of people, work, and culture data, companies can tap into unmatched insights and guidance not available anywhere else. And by partnering with Google’s leading AI data sources and security, you can be confident that your data is secure while leveraging insights that are more meaningful, work that is made easier, and interactions that are transformed into extraordinary experiences and remarkable outcomes. Don’t just dream about a great workplace — create one. The future is Bryte.

Conversational, Generative AI

Bryte Assist empowers your people to quickly find the answers they need by asking questions using plain language, right in the flow of work. The guidance they receive will be based on proven practices and company policies in a way that is easy to understand.

Receive Actionable Insights & Guidance

Using your unique people-data and taking over 30 years of best practices into consideration, UKG Ready surfaces the most important information about your teams automatically, and also recommends next steps to make a difference for your company and people.

Better Understand Your People & Better Meet Their Needs

Track employee sentiment and work patterns in order to anticipate what they are looking for from their employer and ensure that you’re creating a workplace where people want to stay and grow.

Key benefits

For HR Professionals

Retain top talent by leveraging employee insights with the right tools in the right moment to help anticipate issues like turnover and burnout

Review analytics dashboard for easy sharing of insights and regular checking of key performance indicators

Receive guidance on common reporting questions with quick-start visualization templates to answer them

Receive proactive recommendations of possible actions to take based on your people data

Make the right decisions based on facts in areas such as recruiting evaluations, engagement surveys, and performance reviews

For Managers

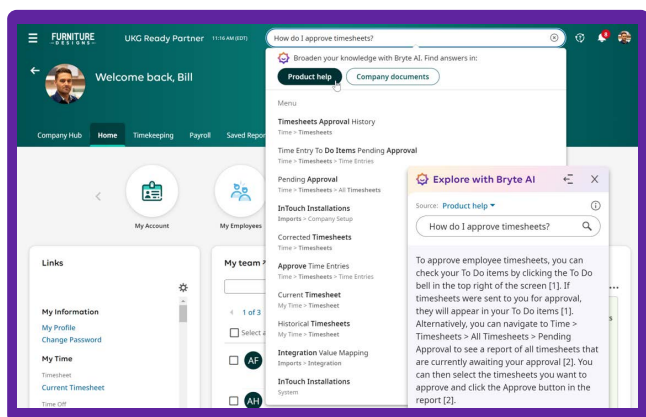

Become a champion for your team by giving them in the moment support with AI-tools including Bryte Assist self-service chat

Identify opportunities for scheduling optimizations by ensuring that employee preferences, shift budgets, compliance and training are taken into consideration automatically

Spot and correct any inequities in employee pay, promotions, overtime, and other key metrics

Analyze vast data sets and create reports in seconds based on specific asks using Guided Analysis

Recognize successes and gain clarity on opportunities to improve processes using external benchmarking

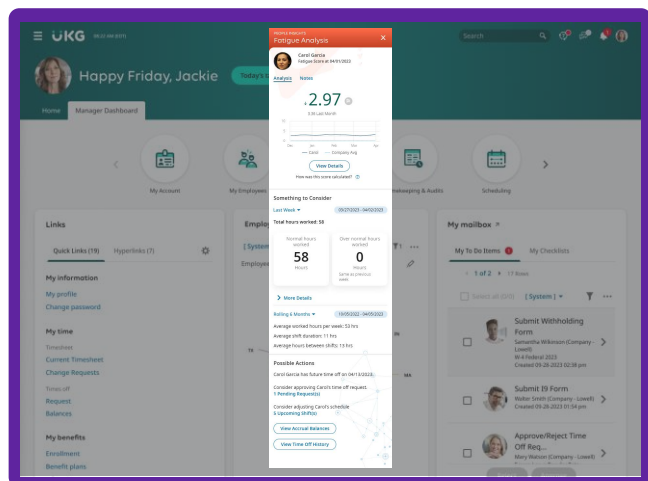

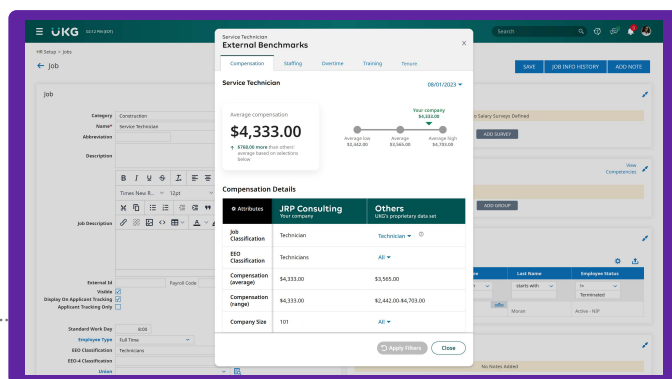

"I wish I could get immediate answers to all my work questions in seconds."

Bryte Assist
Coming 2025

"I wonder how different areas of my company compare to others in our industry."

External Benchmarking
Available now with UKG Ready People Insights

"Is my team dealing with burnout, what is contributing to it, and how should I address it?"

Fatigue Analysis & Flight Risk
Available now with UKG Ready People Insights

Learn how UKG Bryte can transform your employee experience

See How